

How to add requirements

The requirement list generated by ProductIP represents that what you should do in order to create an assumption of compliance. Many businesses would like to verify if the product complies with functional aspect, in many cases specified in standards as well. You can either add relevant requirements to the list manually or, Enterprise customers only, create your own corporate standards and have these added to our database as requirements, either public or private. Our expert team maintains the database.

Adding a requirement manually is easy. On the requirements tab click on ADD requirements and select the requirements that you want to add, and press ADD. Now they are part of the requirement list and you can use them to collect compliance evidence.
